The evidence of his genius and energy are seen almost everywhere, and a grateful people gladly accord to him the tribute of their praise. Without the railroad development of recent years, Florida would be far backward. In Florida railroads, steamboat lines, hotels, and other improvements, Mr. Plant has beep conspicuous. The phosphate industry of Florida, which for a while enjoyed a marvelous boom, seems to be taking a rest just now, as many of the mines have shut down either temporarily or permanently. The territory of the phosphate field is very extensive, and it is probable that the large and what might be termed unlimited supply has affected the market, as the price of phosphate has materially depreciated. 6till, even at prevailing figures, there is said to be money in the business.
