Its encouraging to note that OPM has now put in place a system led OPM, in the late 1980s, to oversee and recognize the significant changes that have an extensive research effort to identify specific systems occurred in the nature of work, but these changes themselves problems and to plan appropriate remedies. have not come about suddenly. They have been Among the issues addressed was the pay gap. In brewing for years. Of course, the pace of the 1990, largely as a result of OPM's efforts, Congress change seems to be increasing, making it more difficult passed the Federal Employees Pay and Comparability Act to keep up with the problem. And OPM has its Act (FEPCA) with the intent of closing that gap made efforts to simplify the classification of many over a nine-year period by focusing on geographical jobs by modifying various classification standards, a locations rather than treating positions the same 15 move that has given Government managers needed way across the board. flexibility. But this has merely changed the guide-Nonetheless, in the years since the passage of lines used to classify jobs; the basis for those FEPCA, the pay gap that it addressed remains.
