North of Golden

By Miriam Misenko

CreateSpace Independent Publishing Platform. Paperback. Book Condition: New. Miriam Misenko (illustrator). This item is printed on demand. Paperback. 400 pages. Dimensions: 9.0in. x 6.0in. x 0.9in. In a small New Mexico town where an everyday breakfast consists of Cheerios swimming in tequila and meth is liberally sprinkled on tamales, a misfit artist tries to peck out an existence on her isolated solar ranch, situated south of Santa Fe and just North of Golden. With her ambiguously-gay dog, her recently grief-stricken sister, Lena, and her stuttering dooper-friend, Dilaudid Dave, Izzys world is rather ordinary until the discovery of a stash of gold turns life upside down. Izzy was only three years old when plucked from her birth country of Korea and dropped into the dysfunctional chaos of the Giordano family of Philadelphia. She decided to leave her crazy Catholic upbringing and pursue her artistic goals in the quirky town of Madrid, New Mexico where her life revolves solely around painting and her faithful yellow lab, Spartacus. Things start to get complicated when Izzys sister comes for a visit in search of consolation after the death of her husband. What they discover in the process is a buried treasure, a stash of gold...
